Speeches were made by Charles I. Pressy of Andover, the retired president, Stewart B. Howe of Exeter, Frank M. Chiley of Exeter, James B. Sampson of Portsmouth, E. C. PUBLISHERS PAPER CO. Defendant in $50,000 Suit Brought by Charles G. Saunders.

In the United States District court Judge Bingham has filed an opinion in the important case of Charles G. Saunders vs. Publishers Paper Co., and the Conway Co. This action was brought in 1909 to recover damages claimed at $50,000 for cutting certain timber, and to establish the title to several thousand acres of valuable timber land situated in the southern part of Livermore. By agreement of parties the case was referred to the Hon. Edgar Aldrich, who found and reported the facts. The case was heard upon the master's report by Judge Bingham last June. Judge Bingham holds that the plaintiff has title to

HUERTA READY TO WITHDRAW

In Favor of Diaz and Sends to Europe For Nephew of Deposed Ruler

Mexico City, Sept. 18.—Instructions have been sent by President Huerta to Gen. Felix Diaz, who is now in Europe, to return to Mexico immediately. It is expected that he will sail within a few days.

This fact is learned on high authority and it is regarded here as indicating that General Huerta intends to abide by the pact signed at the American embassy last February to place no obstacle in the path of General Diaz in his candidacy for the presidency.

It is considered possible that General Huerta will throw his influence to Diaz, which would practically insure his election.

They artisans of Diaz have not ceased to work in his behalf and assert that they have organized upwards of 3000 "clubs" throughout the republic. Up to the present, General Diaz is the only candidate in the field.

It is learned that the bankers who recently agreed to finance the administration to the extent of 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 pesos have declined to offer any hope of assistance dating beyond

KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

One Life Is Lost and Several Injured in Collision at Spencer, Mass.

Spencer, Mass., Sept. 18.—Arthur H. Greenfield of Paterson, N. J., was fatally injured and Mrs. Greenfield was severely hurt today when their touring car tipped over near Moose Hill farm, just outside this town, after contact, it is said, with a larger automobile which was trying to pass them. Two other occupants of the car, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Greenfield of Newark, N. J., cousins of the man who was killed, were thrown into the brush by the roadside, but suffered no bad injuries.

The chauffeur of the larger car, Lewis Almond of Baltimore, was arrested and charged with reckless driving and assault. He was released in $500 bonds furnished by the owner of the car, Douglas H. Thomas of Baltimore.

The chauffeur and owner together with the other occupants of this car members of the Thomas family, were ordered to appear in court tomorrow morning when Almond will be given a hearing.

Mr. Greenfield was taken to the home of a physician nearby. He died after reaching there. He was 60 years old. His wife was hurried soon after to the Worcester city hospital, suffering from an injury to the left hip, and it is feared, from internal injuries. It is expected she will recover.

SH! SUSPENDERS FOR WOMEN!

Pantaloons, Too, in the Latest Paris Scheme for Making Hipless Figures.

"There is nothing new under the sun," it is said, but those who have seen, or heard about, the latest thing from Paris are inclined to doubt the saw.

For they say if suspenders for women are not new, then what on earth is. Suspenders they are known as yet, until some new name can be invented that will remove this novelty from classification with the vulgarly utilitarian article worn by men.

The novelty really is a "suspender pantaloons," fashioned of delicate silk and it has been introduced in order to assist in securing a truly "hipless figure." Suspenders, or something like them, are needed, the fashion experts say. If the little pantaloons are to be held up, and the waist kept slender at the same time.

Pink erpe de chine is said to be the favorite color and material for pantaloons and suspenders, but dark blue or black suspenders are worn under dark colored dresses.

In the struggle to attain the "hipless figure" a chemise of the same material, which goes on over the head, is belted under the bust in empire fashion. Over this the dress of negligee is worn. Very conservative persons, the Parisian fashion note adds, wear petticoats.

CAVE-IN CLOSES NEW HAVEN TRACK

Was Near to Steel Span High Over Blackstone River at Woonsocket.

Woonsocket, R. I., Sept. 18.—Shortly after the 11:55 train left Woonsocket for Providence this morning a cave-in on the southbound track of the New Haven railroad, 13 feet long and 10 feet deep, was discovered several hundred feet from the station and close to a large steel span over the Blackstone river, which is 60 feet below.

The track was closed and all the afternoon trains were sent over the branch track, around this cave-in. Railroad officials say it is heavy rains and the ground had been so saturated that there was no danger of a wreck. A section of the span was put in work at once making repairs.

Inspector Faurot Has Information Which Warrants an Investigation --Murderer Schmidt Insists Upon Identity

New York, Sept. 18.—While arrangements were being made today to have a jury pass upon the sanity of "Father" Hans Schmidt, his own bill of evidence was piling up, linking closer and closer the lives of the slayer of Anna Ammiller and his alleged counterfeiting partner, Dr. Ernest Muret.

Muret was the central figure in the day's developments. The priest, whose very right to the name he claimed, and the cloth he wore, is being questioned, grow morose in his cell and talked little. Muret appeared in court to plead guilty and be held on the charge of having a dangerous weapon in his possession. This charge was a mere formality, serving to hold him in the hands of the state authorities while the mysterious incidents and turns of his many sided life are being followed and his association with the Ammiller girl's murderer traced to its beginning.

The pseudo-dentist, who appears from information the authorities already have acquired in their search, to have practiced medicine under another name, in Chicago, in England, and on the Continent, has been thought by the police almost from the beginning to bear some blood relationship to Schmidt. Thus the advice tonight from the police to Schmidt, that Muret's new believed to be the murderer's cousin, Adolf Mueller, caused but little surprise among the investigators.

PRINCESS KILLS SELF IN PALACE

Sophia of Saxe-Weimar Is Spondent Over Objections to Her Love Affair.

Heidelberg, Germany, Sept. 18.—Princess Sophia of Saxe-Weimar-Eisenach, a beautiful young woman, unusually popular, of sunny disposition, and much courted by the officers, with whom she often rode behind the haunts of the Baron Court hunts, committed suicide early this morning. Her body with a bullet wound in the temple, was found in her room in the palace of her father, Prince William.

The princess was engaged to Hans von Blotzroeder the eldest son of one of the most powerful banking houses in Germany. When the engagement was announced prematurely some months ago, it was learned that the reigning grand duke, Prince William Ernst, vigorously opposed to the union unless the princess renounced all her titles and dignities. This she refused to do.

Family Much Beloved

Princess Sophia and her parents were much beloved in Heidelberg to the interest they had taken in the poor and the general welfare, although the father was by no means wealthy and was living on an annuity.

BODY OF GAYNOR ARRIVES IN N. Y.

Body of Dead Chief Executive Is Transferred to Lighter in Lower Harbor.

New York, Sept. 18.—All arrangements had been completed last evening for the tribute the city will pay its dead executive, William J. Gaynor, whose body will be landed from the steamer Lusitania here today.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Lusitania was reported by wireless off Nantucket Lightship and at midnight she arrived at the entrance of the harbor. It was arranged for the department of correction's boat Correction to draw up alongside the liner down the bay to transfer the body from the steamer's decks to the unfilled casket resting on the heavily draped catafalque on the upper deck of the little vessel. The Correction will stop in at a Brooklyn pier sometime before day-break. The exact time and place was withheld because of Mrs. Gaynor's wish to avoid a crowd when the casket is brought ashore.

The Correction steamed down the bay early last evening. She was a hearse afloat. Her flag drooped at half mast and her upper deck was a solemn spectacle of black. Down in the engine room and in the deck houses the members of the crew had replaced their blue stained jackets with black shirts and black bow ties.

In asking that the next meeting of labor representatives be held here the Portsmouth delegation had not the least opposition. They got several resolutions through, landed a vice president, and secured the next convention.

DONALD SMITH PLAYS FINE GOLF AT BROOKLINE

New Record for Course--Two Cards of 71 in the Open Golf Championship.

Brookline, Mass., Sept. 18.—The more serious work in the National Open Golf Championship began this morning at The Country Club. Not that the two qualifying days lacked seriousness—they were desperately so for some who were on the rugged edge between being in or out and to some who were left out, notably such men as George O. Simpson and Will Smith. But every stroke taken from now on figures for 72 holes and has its bearing upon the title.

Rain this morning kept the crowd down to slim proportions. In the early hours, though, there were a surprising number on hand to start out with Harry Vardon, considering conditions. The rain slowed up the course considerably, giving some advantage to the long hitters, from the back tees. What many of the players realized was to have the putting greens watered somewhat of their extreme keenness of the first two days.

Vardon started at 9 o'clock, partnered by Benning of South Carolina, and the gallery was treated to a green exhibition. In the turn, in everything except putting. Not until the fifth hole did the English wizard break through his string of fours. There he took three putts. That was not so bad, however, as at the sixth, where the situation for Vardon looked most promising for a 3, he took three putts and had to record a 5. His iron from the seventh tee was by no means up to the standard, yet he held the chip shot up close enough to have an excellent chance for his 3, but did not get it.

To the eighth his second shot was a bit short; he ran the next up to a commendable putting distance for his 1. A drive, iron and pitch and him on the long ninth, and his putt for four stopped an inch short of the cup. That put Vardon out in 39, where every department of his play except putting justified a 30, if not 35. By this time the gallery would have been willing to dispense with the sunshine and accept clouds, or even rain, in preference. The course and the spectators were alike fairly steaming.

Richard Vardon, meantime, was counting a man out in the habit of missing putts, at least one who seldom enters the kind which are considered generally holeable. While it is true that the green and putting are championed did not miss one or two on the outward round that must have caused a little exasperation, at the same time he more than atoned for these by getting down some long ones. He had a 3 at the second hole, which is a par 1, took a long putt for a 3 at the fifth, therefore having a chance of strokes from the average figure at that hole, and again at the sixth he put down a rather lengthy putt for another 3.

Where he missed one was at the eighth, meaning a 5 instead of a 4, and at the ninth, where his addition led him into the mistake of trying to get a 4, which meant 43 strokes to the turn. Instead of getting his 1 he overran the hole, failed coming back and took 8, so was 36 out. That was grand golf, but in this championship, every stroke lost through any cause is liable to bring regrets later.

On the homestead holes McDermott's play deteriorated a little, where as Vardon's persistency in being always on the line and always trying his approach up to the hole had little to do in putting netted him a gain of two strokes over the United States open champion on the last nine holes. Vardon came home in 35, whereas McDermott took 38, including a missed short putt at the seventeenth. Where McDermott fell from grace was at the twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth holes, on each of which he took a stroke more than par.

If Vardon was asked what he likes best about the Country Club, he probably would respond "The eighteenth green." That was where he holed his 35-foot putt Monday to gain the lead over Francis Ouless in the first day's qualifying play. On the same hole this morning his approach was on the edge of the green, perhaps 25 feet from the cup, and again he holed it, for another 3. One putt on the eighteenth each day should be most acceptable, especially to a putter like Vardon.

McDermott at least had the satisfaction of leading Vardon at the end of the first round, 74 to 75, but neither of them was at the top of the heap by any means. MacDonal Smith, one of the greatest young players in America, considered by many as good a player today as his famous brothers, Alex and Willie Smith, ever were returned a card of 71, a record for the course as it is now played.

Smith had for the championship three years ago, the year that McDermott and Alex Smith also were in a tie for the title, Alex Smith winning in the play off. He is a player who has attracted the attention of the visiting professionals from abroad, more than almost any other golfer resident in this country. The round that the "baby" of the Smith family played this morning was notable for a number of reasons. Greater accuracy and better results with the pitch hardly could be imagined. These approaches were so good that young Smith had little left to do on the greens.

The culture of his play is illustrated in the fact that he had nothing worse than a 5 during the round and only four times scored that high. Two of his 71 might well have been 2's for at both the second and third holes he pitched up to within about a yard of the cup, but both times there was mud clinging to his ball and he failed to get the putts down. He did not hole a long putt during the round. Take that fact, in connection with a round of 71, on a course as difficult as The Country Club, and little was left to be explained.

One of the earliest starters of the day was Wilfred Field, the English golfer who made such a fine showing yesterday, opening the eyes of the local golfing world to the fact that Ray and Vardon are not the only foreign visitors to be feared. It was raining when Reid started and continued so until he had played several holes, but he said he was not bothered thereby. Neither did he suffer from the collection of mud on the ball on pitches to the greens.

Steady golf, satisfactory if not brilliant, but the Banstead Dwyer man around in 75, for what he considered a good start on the 72-hole journey. This most remarkable feature of the round as he viewed it in retrospect, was when he played a putt of not more than ten inches on the sixth green. He got his 4, a par figure, but not to get his 3 was like throwing away a valuable gift; he took three putts in the third green, but in general was putting well through out with the touch he had yesterday. The unfettered green made it possible to hit the ball much more freely.

Something happened in the play of Reid and his partner, C. Murray of the Royal Montreal Club in Canada, which is not likely to improve the play of many putts during the championship. They both had a four at this hole. Murray, one of the best players, resident in Canada, the last few years, had a round of 6, playing well after the first four holes.

Young had his timing this morning even better. MacDonal Smith finished with his 71. Walter Hugh of Rochester, a native-born professional, turned in a card of 73, a stroke better than McDermott and two better than Vardon. Hugh played steady golf most of the way. He had six fours in a row beginning with the first hole and when he broke away from that profitable figure it was to get a 2 at the seventh. A 5 at the eighth was not up to his high standard, but 5 at the ninth was par, for an outward round of 37. Counting home he was a stroke better, with a short putt missed on the seventeenth.

Edward Ray was among the last of the morning starters and he was driving from the first tee as Harry Vardon was playing his second shot on the home green. A gallery had gathered to watch Ray and a larger one was following Vardon and there were witnesses of indecision in the ranks of both "camps" over whether to wait and see Vardon finish or see Ray start.

Laurence Currie, a former president of the U. S. A. G. who was in the gallery standing close to the home green when Vardon finished and who remained there to await the coming of McDermott, was struck, but not hurt, by an approach shot of Gilbert Nichols. It might be added that Nichols picked up his ball, so is out of the running. Francis Ouless paid the penalty for such it can be called off from by drawing a gallery when he started his morning round, because of his showing in the first day's qualifying round.

Matters improved somewhat this morning with Jerome D. Travers, the national amateur champion. He could not putt at all successfully yesterday, but the heavier greens this morning gave him greater confidence in putting with his accustomed firmness and a round of 73 showed how he benefited from this change over yesterday's conditions. He can do a decent long putt during the round.

By consistent golf on the forward half of the course, Alex Ross of the Three-Burn Country Club, one of the national open champions of the amateur, equalled the 71 of MacDonal Smith. Ross was out in 30, getting a setback at the third hole, where his drive was a bit too far to the right so that he was eliminated by a long hanging branch for his second. There was nothing to do except play safe and then his third was not quite far enough, he was four on and two more to go down, for a 6.

ARMY SERVICE AND CIVIL LIFE

Barry Ready to Knock 'Em Down in World's Series; Faster the Better

Philadelphia, Sept. 20.—Jack Barry, who plays shortstop in the famous stone wall defense of the Athletics, is certain to be an important factor in the coming world's series. The lively little Barry, who is 6 feet 8 and weighs 149, joined Connie Mack's aggregation of cheap priced, but high class players in 1908, being snapped up from Holy Cross and developed into one of the best infielders in the game. Barry is not a hard hitter like his famous teammates Baker, Collins and Melnitz, but he is generally impregnable at short.

practicable eventually. As a matter of fact useful instruction is given already in some branches of the service. In the Coast Artillery electrical work is important and men receive valuable instruction and experience in this line. The signal service has long been a good training school for telegraphers, and in the medical department, knowledge of chemistry is imparted. The problem for the enable many seems very different. Instruction along the line of the three R's has been tried without great success, as the teaching has been rather perfunctory and inferior. Some special practical schools have been established, as at Leavenworth where horseback riding is taught, but the problem of working into the cavalry, infantry and field artillery, service a practical system of vocational education, with our distinguishing necessary military training or overhauling the service with non-military machine, will prove difficult.

Its desirability is, however, plain. A better class of recruit or a higher average would be assured, since enlistment would not then seem to be a penalty or to the young men themselves a loss of time from practical preparation for civil life. To many it would be accepted as a valuable schooling. Public support for the army would be more intelligent and more general than it now is, and expenditures would not be called waste, even by pacifists.

when he used, for Inspector Pound in charge of the case, to suggest that the clerical prisoner might not be the Hans Schmidt of assassination, but an imposter.

"There is no certainty that this fellow is the real Schmidt," said the inspector. "My information that he is not comes from a source that warrants me in making an investigation. Schmidt is a natural forger and could easily have fixed up the clerical card through which he obtained access to St. Joseph's, and St. Francis church."

Schmidt when this matter of identity was pressed upon him by his counsel, Alphonse Koehle, today, asserted that he was not an imposter. "He told me he was Hans Schmidt," the priest said.

Mr. Koehle, began today laying the groundwork for an insanity defense of his client. He let District Attorney Whitman know what he proposed to ask a court inquiry into Schmidt's sanity. This would necessitate the appointment of a commission or the bringing of the confessed murderer before a laymen's jury.

Defense Has Two Lines

Another line of defense, however, seems likely to be resorted to in a secondary manner. This is an asserted absence of absolute proof of Anna Ammiller's death. Parts of the girl's body cut up by Schmidt, and thrown into the Hudson river have been recovered, but the head, which would afford positive proof of identity, is still missing. It is this contingency which is leading the police to keep up a persistent search for the head of the victim. A diver has been engaged to go over every foot of the river bottom in the vicinity, where yesterday fishermen dragged some object close to the surface and then lost it, only a strand of human hair remaining on the hook.

At the conclusion of an inquest into Anna Ammiller's death, conducted by Coroner Schmidt in Jersey City tonight, the body found in the Hudson river on Sept. 5, and all other exhibits in the case were ordered surrendered to the authorities. The jury brought in this verdict: "We find that Anna Ammiller came to her death on Sept. 2 in her apartment on the premises at 63 Broadway avenue, New York city at the hands of Hans Schmidt."

Anna Hirt, of New York (testified that she knew Anna Ammiller, they having worked together in the rectory of St. Boniface church. Miss Hirt said she was able to identify the torso at Volk's margin in Hoboken as that of Anna Ammiller because of a peculiar brown mark on the breast.

MORE CHARGES ARE DRAFTED

Gov. Sulzer Charged With Usurpation of Function of Executive Office.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 18.—The assembly tonight adopted a resolution offered by Majority Leader Levy, calling for the arrest of James G. Garrison, for alleged contempt in refusing to answer questions before the judiciary committee concerning statements attributed to him to the effect that money was used to influence votes of certain members in bringing about the impeachment of Governor Sulzer.

Garrison who was in the assembly chamber at the time, was immediately taken before the bar of the house. He refused to repudiate his alleged statement, and was remanded to the custody of the sergeant-at-arms pending further action.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 18.—William Sulzer, governor of New York, charged by the assembly with high crimes and misdemeanors, failed to appear in person today before the high court of impeachment when it convened to bring the trial which will determine his guilt or innocence. Instead his attorneys entered a special appearance, in the governor's behalf and challenged the organization of the court and its jurisdiction over the accused.

The objections were overruled temporarily by Chief Judge Mullen of the court of appeals, presiding, and the impeachment proceeded to organization.

The court convened at noon and adjourned an hour later until tomorrow to permit a committee of three to report and prepare rules of procedure.

Senator Wagner, Senator Elton H. Brown, the Republican leader, and Judge Wilford Brantley of the court of appeals the committee appointed to draft the rules of procedure had practically completed their work tonight. Apart from the adoption of precedents was focused on the expected legal battle over the right of the challenged senators to sit as members of the court.

The defense contends that the members of the Fawcett committee have not uncovered the evidence against the governor, should not be permitted to assume the dual role of prosecutor and judge.

Court Now Numbers 67.

The impeachment court as constituted today numbered 67, of whom 48 are senators and 19 are judges of the court of appeals.

Judge John Clinton Gray the tenth member of the court of appeals, as in Europe but is expected to return before the trial is completed. Senator John C. Fitzgerald of New York who was absent today on account of illness is also expected to return within a few days so that by the time the first article of impeachment is submitted to vote, it is expected that with all present the court will consist of 69 members. In that event it will take 30 votes, the two-thirds majority required by the constitution, to convict.

Scores of witnesses are under subpoena to testify. At least 50 will be called to establish the case of the prosecution, the managers assert, and it is believed that as many will be called by the defense. Louis A. Sweeney, secretary to Mr. Sulzer during the gubernatorial campaign, wanted as one of the star witnesses for the prosecution is missing.

Drafts Additional Charges

Additional charges against the governor have been drafted by the board of managers of the assembly which it was expected would be considered by the house tonight if a sufficient number of members were in attendance. These new articles said to be two in number, were reported to contain among other charges of alleged usurpation by the governor of the functions of the executive office. It was also proposed to amend the text of certain of the eight articles on which the governor stood impeached when the court convened to meet. Technical objections raise to the last.

Majority Leader Levy moved a close call of the house soon after Speaker Smith had called it to order tonight and the sergeant at arms was instructed to round up the missing members. The early indications were that, another all night session was in prospect.

DEVELOPED TOO MUCH STEAM

Quincy, Sept. 18.—The superdreadnought Rivadavia of the Argentine fleet, which returned unexpectedly this morning from a 30-hour run, which began yesterday morning, and anchored in Presidents roads for repairs to her starboard turbine engine and to some of the boilers.

An accident that is novel in boiler troubles developed on the big sea fighter some time yesterday in that some of the boilers developed too much steam. More steam than the turbines could take care of caused some of the buckets on the starboard engine to curl, with a consequent loss of efficiency. On the first trip New York similar trouble was experienced with two of the turbines, and at that time it was thought the difficulty was due to the bucket metal not being of sufficient tensile strength.

On the 30-hour run yesterday, similar trouble developed on the starboard engine, and it was thought better to return at once to Boston and have the defect remedied. It is understood the big ship was off the Nova Scotia coast when the engine trouble developed.

When the boiler tubes are rearranged and the buckets are replaced the Rivadavia will go back on her 30-hour trip, in which she will have to maintain a 20-knot speed. After that she will have another 30-hour run at cruising speed and a four-hour run at top speed, 22 1/2 knots.

MOTOR BANDITS
GOT $2000

Toledo, O., Sept. 18.—Motoring from Toledo westward, Herman C. G. Luytjes of St. Louis and a party of five were held up by three men in an automobile, six miles from Bryan, O., at 12:30 this morning. Threatening the tourists with revolvers, the thieves secured $2000 in cash, a gold purse carried by one of the women, several diamonds and other jewelry.

The robbers drove away with the two cars, leaving the Luytjes in the road. They walked to a farmhouse, were conveyed to Bryan and arrested Sheriff Weiland of Williams County. Following the fire trucks he found the two automobiles at a farmhouse, out of gasoline. As he approached, Weiland was shot in the left arm and another bullet inflicted a flesh wound in his head.

He grappled with one man and arrested him. The prisoner said he was R. W. Duff, aged 26, of Toledo. Two other suspects were taken later from a passenger train at Wausau.

With Luytjes in the automobile which was held up were Charles E. St. Louis; W. E. Crozier, New York, and two women who gave their names as Mrs. Smith and daughter of St. Louis.

DECLARES LACK
NAVY TORPEDOES

Scarcity Is Menace to Effectiveness of Fleet, Mr. Britten Believes.

WOULD ENLARGE PLANT
FOR THEIR PRODUCTION

Introduces Bill Appropriating $400,000 for Factory at Newport.—Comments on Situation.

Because he believes that the present lack of torpedoes in the United States Navy is a serious menace to the effectiveness of the fleet, Representative Britten of Chicago, a member of the naval affairs committee of the House, on Wednesday introduced a bill to appropriate $400,000 to be used in enlarging the government's torpedo plant at Newport, R. I.

Representative Britten, whose favorable epigrammatic argument in favor of a big navy is "the man behind the punch is the man who gets by," says that the American flag is floating over many a vessel with ominous-looking torpedo tubes, but without a single torpedo to be fired from them. From Mr. Britten's study of the torpedo situation, these stingless tubes are about as effective in war time as a soldier who can't do anything but make faces.

Further, Mr. Britten presented figures to the House to show that unless the government increases its torpedo-making capacity at Newport there would be no torpedoes at all after the few now on hand were discharged in war time. Said Mr. Britten in explaining his bill:

"If war were declared tomorrow our great flotilla of battleships, destroyers, cruisers, torpedo boats and submarines could fire but 700 torpedoes, when the entire supply of the United States would be exhausted, and we could not get an additional torpedo in this country or in Europe for love or money."

"It does not seem possible that previous administrations, while appropriating for battleships, each with an equipment of from two to four torpedo tubes, and while considering the construction of destroyers, each of which is equipped with from four to six tubes, and the construction of submarines, which are usually equipped with four tubes—that it was possible to overlook the necessity of appropriating for a sufficient number of torpedoes to at least keep our navy and these ships above the ridicule of foreign nations."

"The 700 torpedoes in service are not even adequate to fire two shots from each of the 463 tubes with which the various vessels of our navy are equipped."

Classed as Ridiculous.

"The torpedo situation in as ridiculous as would be the sending of a soldier to the front in time of war armed with a fistless rifle and one cartridge."

"Our fleet of forty destroyers in traveling the high seas today with from one to three torpedoes on each ship, while our torpedo boats and submarines, which must depend entirely upon their torpedoes for success in battle, are carrying as few as from none to four torpedoes on board each ship. Of course, this might not be a serious menace if it were possible to obtain torpedoes as we obtain powder and other munitions of war, but when you consider that the total American output of torpedoes is less than one torpedo per day, or 360 each year, and when you further consider that the total output of Whitehead torpedoes in Europe has been contracted for three years in advance by foreign governments, you will then understand the seriousness of the present torpedo situation."

"The firing of 700 torpedoes could be accomplished in short order, after which our destroyers, torpedo boats and submarines might just as well never have been built, useless, of course. It is supposed that our first 700 shots will completely wipe out of existence the opposing fleet."

But the Manufacturing Companies.

"There are but two commercial manufacturers of torpedoes in the world, the Bliss company of New York and the Whitehead company of Europe, so that our source of supply is limited to these two companies and the addition, of course, of the total output of our own plant at Newport."

"The total annual capacity of the Bliss company is 200 torpedoes a year, while the capacity of our Newport plant is 100 torpedoes per annum, making a possible total of 300 projectiles each year, under the most favorable circumstances, and in this connection permit me to say that we have contracted for some 500 torpedoes from the Bliss company, which will insure their output to us for two years to come, but their capacity could be increased if our government would place a substantial order with them for a reasonable delivery."

"You will, of course, understand it would be impossible for us to purchase torpedoes abroad in time of war, even though we offer a liberal bounty to foreign powers for their supply on hand or in the process of manufacture. You might just as well expect them to sell us their battleships, which, of course, would be out of the question."

A PLEASED AUDIENCE

The comedy "What Happened to Mary" by Owen Davis, was presented at Portsmouth Theatre on Thursday evening before a large and pleased audience. All of the characters were well sustained and the company was one of the best balanced seen here for a long time.

The part of Mary as portrayed by Julia Arden was not overdone and during the entire four acts she faithfully acted the part of the unsophisticated country bred girl. Maude Stevens assumed the role of Mrs. Winthrop in a very charming manner. A pleasing bit of acting was that of Earle Craddock to whom fell the part of Captain Joffler, the bluff old sailor. The part of John Willis, the woman hater, was well acted by Garland Gaden.

The play which is founded on the "Mary" stories in the Ladies World, is one that especially appeals to all classes. The cast of characters was as follows:

HOW TO CUT THE COST OF LIVING

Chicago, Sept. 18.—The six sections of the International Congress and Exposition of Refrigeration arranged their temporary organizations today preparatory to a week of discussion of the most modern means of preserving, conserving, and transporting foods. The first day of the congress was devoted chiefly to a welcome by the city officials and to the examination of the exhibits which fill the large amphitheatre at the Union Stock Yards. The discussion and arguments on the problems of refrigeration will begin tomorrow.

The six sections of the congress are:

1. Liquid gases and units.
2. The design, construction, operation and methods of testing refrigerating machinery and insulating materials.
3. The application of refrigeration to foods for the purpose of conserving and preserving them.
4. The use of refrigerating apparatus in the industrial arts.
5. Consideration of refrigeration in railway and steamship transportation.
6. Consideration of questions relating to legislation and administration.

Dr. Wiley's Speech.
The cost of living and means of reducing it were discussed by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley.

"There never was a time," he said, "when a man was so well fed as at the present. We do not have to look far to see the causes of the increased cost of food."

"What people are eating better foods than ever before, and second, the purchasing medium—namely, gold—is relatively far more abundant than ever before, hence the quantity of food it will purchase is decidedly less. The great staples, the cereals, however, are not as expensive at the present time as during the past."

"For a day's labor a man can buy more wheat than he could 25 or 30 years ago. It is the part of scientific attention as well as actual economy to increase the quantity of cereals in our food and to diminish those luxuries which are of less necessity and of increasingly higher price."

"To my mind, it seems the most important factor of the day is to check the aggregation of men in the cities and to encourage the distribution of the great industries where men are employed."

"The saloon has no compelling attraction for the laboring man who, after his eight hours of work, has eight hours for his flower and vegetable garden. If our productive industries in a manufacturing line were properly distributed, the alcohol element would be of most of its force."

"The unfortunate condition now exists of providing so-called fresh foods in an advanced state of stoniness and of providing foods which should be properly aged in an immature state. The cured ham is ready for distribution within three weeks of slaughter, and the four-year-old whiskey is made in forty seconds."

To Get More Soldiers.

It has been difficult for many years to get young men to enlist in the Army. Many plans have been tried in vain to awaken enthusiasm among them for a soldier's life. Now, Mr. Garrison, Secretary of War, suggests a plan which seems feasible and practical.

He would have the term of enlistment in the Regular Army shortened so that a man could be trained quickly as a soldier and transferred into the reserve, to be called on in time of the country's need. At present it takes four years to send 50,000 soldiers into the reserve, but under the plan suggested that number would go through in one year.

A young man desirous of entering the Army wants to become a soldier and not a night laborer at an Army post. The Army nearly lost Phil Sheridan, who was disgusted with the drudgery of the post. While being reprimanded in the colonel's tent a visiting officer asked to have him transferred to his regiment, which was going to fight the Indians. Young Sheridan jumped at the chance and thereafter saw active service and became a famous general. Mr. Garrison's plan is worthy of trial.—Boston Globe.

Not Great Detective Work.

There was no great amount of "wizardry" in the eventual solution of the Hudson river-murder mystery. The wonder about this story is that the police should have left the flat, to which the 8th avenue dealer had sent the identifying pillowcases, so long unsearched and unvisited. The murderer left all sorts of clues behind him at every turn. Here was a flat which contained letters, photographs, blood-stained implements and indeed all the evidences of the crime, and quite sufficient identifications of the victim and the murderer. A clue led directly to this flat. But we are assured that the police contented themselves with watching the outside of the flat for four days and merely noting the fact that no one entered or left it! In this case the detectives were simply made a present, by fortuitous circumstances, of the identification of the parties. It was thrown into their laps. Who can wonder, when such purely passive detective work is regarded as marvelous, that the Elsie Sigel case, the Dorothy Arnold case and a great many other such mysteries remain forever unsolved?—New York Mail.

The Elks Are Hustlers.

Wednesday was a big day for Portsmouth's biggest secret and social organization—the Elks. The boys showed that an outing could be made an event long to be remembered and they are jubilant over its great success. Portsmouth Lodge, No. 97, is a healthy and vigorous institution and the members are full of hustle and never do anything by halves. There is hoping for its continued success.

The People Are Now "Calling" Bryan.

It looks from this distance as though William Jennings Bryan would have to let go of his $12,000 job as secretary of state or give up the show business. A unanimous sentiment of the people has made the call and thus another one of the so-called exponents of the people's rights has been "caught with the goods." Mr. Sulzer of New York is now on the rack.

Presidential Pressure.

Gloss it over as you, or the President, will, the fact remains that this Congress has been subjected to a greater degree of pressure from the White House than has any other Congress. The President does it politely, he does it in the best and purest of English, but he does it.—Johnstown Tribune.

On the Downward Scale.

It appears to be popular as ever to hit the railroads and New England railroad stocks continue on the downward scale.

FIND COUNTERFEITS ARE NOT WORK OF SCHMIDT

Washington, Sept. 18.—United States secret service officials today reported to Secretary McAdoo that they were convinced after investigation that the $10 and $20 counterfeit gold certificates which have been exclusively circulated in New England were not the work of Hans Schmidt, priest and confessed murderer and counterfeiter, under arrest in New York. The report by Acting Chief Moran expressed the belief that Schmidt had not circulated any spurious notes and that his counterfeiting operations were in the experimental stage.

Is Taken on Long Auto Ride Through Adjacent Towns By Sheriffs.

Concord, Sept. 18.—"This has been the most enjoyable day I have had in years," said Harry K. Thaw, as he returned from a long automobile ride in the country today. The outing was arranged by Sheriff Drew, who has Thaw in custody pending the outcome of the extradition hearing before Governor Feltner next Tuesday.

Accompanied by the sheriff and his assistant, Special Officer Stevens, newspapermen and photographers, Thaw was about to leave the hotel, where he is quartered, when Drew saw that the report that Thaw was to be given an airing had attracted a large crowd in the square outside. The sheriff suggested they avoid the crowd by going through a rear entrance and boarding the automobile in an alley. This did not suit Thaw at all.

"The front door or nothing for me," he said, and the sheriff let him have his way.

Amidst the cheers of the crowd, the party whirled out of the city through the village of Pennacook, 12 miles distant, to Haverhill. There the waiting holds stretching alongside the state highway attracted Thaw, who got down to stretch his legs with Officer Stevens.

Thaw was in fine fettle and, for over two miles, lit up a pipe that forced Stevens to do his best to keep up. When they climbed back into the car Thaw's cheeks had a healthy flush and he was in better condition as to wind than was his guard.

Visits St. Paul's School.

Upon their return trip a visit was made to St. Paul's school, where Thaw's cousin, Edmund Thaw, Jr., was a student seven years ago.

"This has made me feel like going to bed early and getting a good sleep," said Thaw when he got back. But before carrying out that part of his program he went over with his lawyers the results of their all day search in the law books of the state library for precedents bearing upon the extradition proceedings to be held before Governor Feltner Tuesday.

The lawyers said they were well satisfied with the results of their investigations and expressed confidence that they had a strong case for the governor's consideration. William M. Chase of this city, a former judge of the state supreme court and author of the official digest of New Hampshire statutes, is taking a leading part in this work of Thaw's lawyers.

But for Thaw and his counsel and communications to Governor Feltner concerning the case continue to pour in in great quantities. Otherwise there seems to be a lull in proceedings so far as surface indications show. There have been many departures of those connected with the case, and no new arrivals. By Monday night, however, practically the full force of them for and against Thaw is expected to be on the scene.

A small flurry of interest was caused this afternoon when a New York man, who has been in Concord since Monday circulating a petition asking the governor to release Thaw, was forcibly ejected from Thaw's hotel. During the evening remarks made by him were construed as a threat against William Travers Jerome, and the police sent him out of the city.

OLD TIME DROUGHT AND INSECT PEST

We sometimes think that the severe droughts from which we have been suffering the past few years, particularly the last few weeks, are caused by cutting away the forests. That is a factor of considerable importance, says the Springfield Republican. In connection with the important service of the Massachusetts Historical society in publishing in two richly illustrated and illustrated volumes the "History of Plymouth Plantation," which was written by William Bradford during and after his return from the office of governor of the Plymouth colony, but it does not fully answer, for notice this record of the year 1623:

"I may not here omit how, notwithstanding all their great pains and industry, and the great hopes of a large crop, the land seemed to waste, and take away the same, and to threaten more and more famine unto them, by reason of a great drought which continued from the 3 weeks in May, till about the middle of July, without any rain, and with great heat for the most part, inasmuch as the corn began to wither away, though it was not with the heat, the moisture whereof helped it much. Yet at length it began to languish sore, and some of the drier higher grounds (which were parched like withered) dried) lay, part whereof was never recovered. Upon which they set a piteous solemn day of humiliation, to seek the Lord by humbly and fervent prayer, in this great distress. And he was pleased to give them a gracious and speedy answer, both to their own, and the Indians' admiration: that, lived amongst them, for all the morning, and the greatest part of the day, it was clear weather and very bright, and not a cloud or any sign of rain to be seen, yet towards evening (somewhat

Thomas A. Edison Forced to Stay Away From Work by Sickness.

Thomas A. Edison, the famous wizard of electricity, was forced to remain away from work because of illness. Many men seem to be glad of the opportunity to gain a respite from their daily toil, no matter if it is through sickness. But Edison is such an ardent exponent of the human grail, he spends most of his waking hours in his laboratory and sleeping but a few hours each night, that when the doctor ordered him to stay at home in West Orange, N. J., the public began to think that the inventor must really be ill. It was the first time in eight years that Edison had stayed away from his daily experiments. This characteristic picture shows how Edison looks today.

PRINCESS KILLS SELF IN PALACE

age from the reigning grand duke. As the head of the family the grand duke objected to the union of the princess with a man who occupied an inferior station in life. Her father it is said, was inclined to accede to his daughter's wishes, but was unable to take an independent stand owing to the financial relations with the grand duke.

While the princess had been prevented from marrying von Helldorf, they had often been seen together at Heidelberg since the engagement was announced. He studied for several years at Heidelberg and made the doctor's degree last winter.

It is not known whether the pair had resigned themselves to the decision of the grand duke, but von Helldorf, it is reported, started to the tragedy has been let out and from Berlin for Heidelberg yesterday.

No statement of any kind relative to the official confirmation of the suicide could not be obtained today at Prince William's palace. But the townspeople have accepted the suicide version and the pathetic feature of the affair has caused deep sorrow.

According to one of the palace employees, the princess shot herself about 6 o'clock in the morning and a maid entering her apartment soon after came on her dead body. The princess was only 25 years of age, having been born on July 25, 1888.

A brother, Prince Hermann, resigned from the Prussian army several years ago. He settled in London and married an Italian actress. Compelled to renounce his title, he took the name of Count Ostheim.

CURRENT OPINION

IF PROFITS WERE ABOLISHED

If the profit system were abolished there would be no incentive to any man to do anything.

Socialism says every person shall own what he produces and no more and that no one will be allowed to invest anything for profit. Now, suppose one man produces twice as much as another man. What would he do with the surplus under socialism? You would not allow him to invest it for profit, and he could not eat it. How do Socialists propose to handle that situation?

Socialists inveigh against the trusts and capitalism. Ten million workmen in this country have four billion dollars on deposit in the savings banks.

If you want collective ownership of all of this property these ten million men could withdraw their money from the banks, and tomorrow they could buy the steel trust, the sugar trust, the tobacco trust and all of the other trusts, elect their own boards of directors and operate the properties for their own use.

That would give them collective ownership. Why don't you do it? And why do the ten million workmen keep their money on deposit in the savings banks? For profit, of course.—J. Adam Bede, Former Congressman from Minnesota.

APPEAL FOR CASH STIRS DEMOCRATS

Republican politicians who are experts at "raising the hat" for campaign contributions are looking up the law today to see whether or not their democratic brethren did not overshoot the mark when the democratic congressional committee sent out a hurried appeal for $100 apiece from each of the democrats in Congress.

Although there is a difference of opinion in the republican party regarding the legality of the appeal the civil service laws have a paragraph which may bear directly on the subject.

Barred From Election

A prominent republican at the Capital today expressed the flat opinion that contribution from members of Congress may not be collected under this paragraph, which is as follows:

"Section 11. That no senator or representative or territorial delegate of the Congress or senator or representative or delegate-elect, or any officer or employee of either of said houses, and no executive, judicial, military or naval officer of the United States and no clerk or employee of any department, branch or bureau of the executive, judicial or military or naval service of the United States, shall, directly or indirectly, solicit or receive or be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving, any assessment, subscription or contribution for any political purpose whatever, from any officer, clerk, or employee of the United States, or any department, branch or bureau thereof, or from any person receiving any salary or compensation from moneys derived from the treasury of the United States, 22 Stat. 1, 406."

Method an Unusual One.

This is said to be an unusual method for funds, as it is generally the case that campaign contributions for the congressional committees are contributed from sources outside the Capital. The republican congressional committee, it was asserted today by a member of it, has never solicited contributions from members of Congress.

For will begin to fly in the West Virginia district represented by Representative Davis until he was made solicitor general of the United States. Republicans and Democrats intend to get down to work to put over a big majority and some of the money asked for by Chairman Doremus of the Democratic congressional committee would be used for that fight.

Mrs. Price Post of Tuxedo, N. Y., who has passed the summer at York Harbor expects to return home about September 20.

BURNING BRIDGE WRECKS TRAIN

Two Hurt When Great Northern Limited Is Ditched in Minnesota.

Winona, Minn., Sept. 18—Six cars of the Great Northern's eastbound Oriental Limited were hurled from the track by a burning bridge on the Burlington railway three miles east of East Winona today.

Mrs. A. F. Traynor and H. G. Hargrave, both of St. Paul were hurt, it was said, but only slightly. The cars were destroyed by fire.

The train was running 50 miles an hour and was within 500 feet of the trestle when Engineer A. J. Hadley observed the fire. The emergency brakes were applied but it was too late to stop.

The burning trestle was about 40 feet long, and the tender and baggage car tipped over on the north side, and two day coaches, two tourist cars, and the dining car fell on the south side. Three cars remained on the track.

MUCH BUSINESS TRANSACTED AT MEETING OF CITY FATHERS

Bond Issue of $25,000 for Installing Meters Passes Its First Reading.

A meeting of the Mayor and Council was held on Thursday evening and considerable business was transacted. When City Clerk Drew called the roll, Councilmen Plunkham, Cronin, Tilton, Bennett, Duncan and Adams responded to their names. Councilmen Fox, Clark and Smart being absent.

Had a Balance Left.
Councilman Duncan of the special firemen's committee responded that the committee had a balance of $66.78 after paying all outstanding bills. He stated that it was the intention of the committee to hold the money for thirty days and if no more bills were presented, they would turn the money over to the city at the expiration of the time.

Registrars Bills Approved.
The bills of the five members of the board of registrars, who were legislated out of office for political reasons, which were referred to the committee on claims at the last meeting were reported upon favorably. Councilman Tilton reported that the bills should be passed, and the report was accepted and adopted.

Money Transferred.
Councilman Bennett of the Finance Committee reported favorably on the resolution transferring $75 from the contingent fund to the board of public works to reimburse Miss Betty McChand for services as interpreter at the playground.

Plans for the Armory.
Councilman Plunkham of the special committee to procure a site for a state armory, reported that the committee had completed its duties, and that the state architect was at work on plans for the new armory to be built in this city.

Up to the Harbor Master.
At a recent meeting of the Council a communication was received from the engineer officer located at Portland, forbidding the dumping of waste material into the river, having special reference to the dump off Water street. This matter was referred to City Sullenger Paveser, who reported that it was up to the harbor master to prosecute all persons dumping waste material into the river and City

Clerk Drew was instructed to notify him to that effect.

To Purchase Coal.
A resolution appropriating $600, for the purchase of coal for the Haven Pumping Station was passed.

Want Surrounding Improved.
Col. John Pender, president of the Liberty Pole Association, appeared before the council and asked that a committee be appointed to co-operate with the officers of the association for making improvements in the vicinity of the Liberty Pole, such as grading and laying of a new sidewalk. A committee consisting of Councilmen Plunkham, Bennett and Duncan was appointed and Mayor Badger was added.

Referred to Finance Committee.
The bill of A. J. Weyland & Co., for $153 for revolvers furnished the police department was referred to the Finance Committee.

Auditor's Report.
The auditor's report was read and showed that the bill to the amount of $1,811.17 had been approved and ordered paid.

Dond Issue of $25,000.
A resolution authorizing the issuing of $25,000 bonds for the purpose of installing meters throughout the water system of the city of Portsmouth for $25,000 passed its first reading.

Want Cult Street Continued.
A hearing was held on the petition of James McMullen and others for the continuation of Cult street across the land of Joseph Hunt and the city to Myrtle avenue. Col. John Pender and Mr. McMullen appeared in behalf of the petitioners. On motion of Councilman Adams the hearing was continued until the next meeting of the Council.

Adjournment was taken until October 16th.
Mrs. Eugene Carr and young daughter leave today Friday, for Boston, Mass., where they will visit relatives.

IMPEACHMENT PROCEEDINGS ARE OPENED IN NEW YORK

Senate Organize as Court to Hear Testimony--The Governor Will Not Appear in Court.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 18.—William Sulzer, first Governor of New York to be impeached, faced trial today at the bar of the Court of Impeachment, alleged "high crimes and misdemeanors."

While there was practically no prospect of any testimony being taken today, the Capitol was thronged with persons eager to witness the opening ceremonies of the court.

Owing to the small seating capacity of the Senate galleries, a large proportion of the would-be spectators were doomed to disappointment, not more than 250 seats being available for the general public.

From the rival camps there came the same word—confidence of final victory—and that was all. Arrangements against the Governor as counsel for the Assembly board of managers are Alton B. Parker, ex-chief judge of the Court of Appeals, John B. Stanchfield, ex-Senator Edgar A. Brackett, Eugene Lamb Richards, counsel for the Pringle Legislative Committee; Eldred J. Kregel and Abram C. Todd.

Attorneys for the defense include Ex-Supreme Court Justice D. Cady Herick, Irving D. Vann, ex-judge of the Court of Appeals; Austin G. Fox, Ex-Senator Harvey D. Himmans, Louis Marshall and Roger P. Clark.

Opening of the Court.
Acting Lieut. Gov. Robert F. Wagner called the Senate to order at five minutes before the noon hour and ordered a roll call. The contest for both sides took their seats at opposite sides in the semicircular space between the dais and the Senators' chairs.

All but one of the 49 Senators—John C. Fitzgerald of New York—were to their names as the roll was called by Senate Clerk Patrick E. McCabe. Senator Fitzgerald is ill.

Senator John F. Marlaugh of Rhode Island then offered a resolution that a committee of two be appointed to notify the Court of Appeals that the Senate was "ready to join with them in completing the court of the trial of the impeachment of William Sulzer."

This adopted, Senator Marlaugh and Sage of Albany were appointed. They immediately left the chamber for the judges' room across the corridor. Then at 12:02 o'clock the doors opened and the judges, nine in number, clad in their somber judicial robes, filed solemnly into the chamber.

Without objection, it was decided that the three designated judges of the Court of Appeals should sit with the chief justice and the Senators as members of the Court of Impeachment.

Designated Judges Sit.

"The Assembly of the State of New York," said Judge Cullen, "having presented articles of impeachment against William Sulzer, Governor of the State of New York, the president pro tempore of the Senate, in accordance with law, has summoned the Senate of the State and the judges of the Court of Appeals to convene at this time and place as a court of impeachment. The first proceeding will be to call the roll, to see if a majority of the Court of Appeals and a majority of the Senate are present in accordance with the constitution."

After the roll call Judge Cullen declared the court duly constituted. Then Judge Cullen announced that the question had been raised as to the right of Judge Herick, Judge Chase and Judge Miller, designated members of the Court of Appeals, to sit as members of the high court. He said, in his opinion, the designated judges should be permitted to sit.

Council on both sides assented to this ruling. Judge Cullen then administered the oath to every member of the court in alphabetical order.

When the name of Senator James J. Frawley, chairman of the investigating committee which uncovered the evidence upon which the impeachment charges were based, was called, Judge Herick challenged his right to be sworn as a member of the court, presenting written objections thereto.

Allowed to Be Sworn.

After a brief argument Judge Cullen ruled that all members of the Senate had to take the oath before the court takes any action on such challenges.

"This will not prejudice your right to enter challenges later," said Judge Cullen.

"We then reserve the right," replied Mr. Herick.

Senator Frawley took the oath. When the name of Senator Ramseger and Senator Sumner, members of the Frawley Committee, were called, Judge Herick announced that he would challenge their right also as members of the court. He added that he would also challenge Senator Wagner. No reason was given for challenging the latter, who is Democratic leader.

The court had been in session nearly an hour before the last member took his oath. The clerk then called the name of William Sulzer. He did not answer, but Judge Herick and Mr. Sulzer desired to appear through counsel. This request was granted by the presiding judge.

A resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of three to draw up rules and methods of procedure for the court, was adopted, the presiding judge appointing Senators Wagner and Brown and Judge Barlett as such committee.

The court, on motion of Senator Wagner, then adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Surprise Over Wagner.

The galleries were filled, and outside in the corridors hundreds anxiously awaited an opportunity to get a peep into the interior, or to hear a line of the proceedings, but police officers and legislative attaches guarded the doors.

The announcement that objection would be made to Senator Wagner's sitting as a member of the high court came as a surprise, not only to the Senator, but also to every one in the courtroom, with the exception of Gov. Sulzer's legal advisers. They would not discuss the reason of their proposed objection.

Senator Wagner said he had no idea what the grounds might be, unless they intend to claim that he is acting Lieutenant Governor without constitutional authority. Counsel for the Assembly managers had expected challenges to Senators Frawley, Ramseger, Sumner and Brown, new faces of the Frawley committee, but were surprised when an objection was made to Senator Brown.

It was explained, however, that Senator Brown, the Republican leader, although a member of the committee, had not attended any of the hearings.

THAW WISHES LONG STAY

Concord, N. H., Sept. 18.—Harry H. Thaw sat behind a great heap of newspapers at the breakfast table this morning, reading Washington dispatches saying that if his case went to the United States Supreme Court, Evans might roll by before a decision would be handed down.

"We can wait," said the fugitive, "but I hope Gov. Peckham will decide against my extradition at once, so that it will not be necessary to press our habeas corpus writ in the Federal courts."

Neither Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, the fugitive's mother, nor his brother, Joseph, had reached Concord this morning, and Thaw, when asked about their coming, whispered: "That's a secret." He had said last night that he expected them today. Thaw slept well during the night and did not go down to the dining room until nearly 9 a. m. United States Marshal Nute was not with him, and for the time being Sheriff Drew of Coos County was his sole custodian.

Thaw expressed a desire to take a walk through the state house grounds.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Made Up a Mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to Bring Back Color, Gloss, Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is faded, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, thus avoiding a lot of mess.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not stylish, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell because it does it so naturally and evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hair has disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

ANOTHER WILL WILL BE OFFERED

Boston, Mass., Sept. 18.—One of the first legal steps taken in the work of settlement of the estate of the late George E. Williams of Braintree and this city, was the filing of bonds with the Registrar of Probate of Norfolk County today by Altheron N. Hunt of Braintree, with an office at 84 State street, this city, and Emory B. Gibbs of Brookline, with an office in the Tremont Building, this city, as special executors.

The bonds filed were for $50,000 each. Hardly were the records made at the Probate Court before Mr. Hunt was engaged in getting the affairs of the estate in shipshape for himself and Mr. Gibbs. As Mr. Hunt has already had much experience in this settlement, it will take a few days for Mr. Gibbs to go abreast of the situation, and then the creditors will be invited to file their claims in the regular order, and in accordance with the law.

In filing the bonds the executors made it known that the estate of Williams is valued at $230,000, the sum of $30,000 being in real estate and $200,000 in personal property. The estate is hopelessly insolvent. The Registrar of Probate of Norfolk County was called on the telephone today and asked if the will of the late George E. Williams had been pronounced, and when the person on the telephone was given the necessary information the voice said: "I have another will of an older date which I shall bring in." This was the first intimation of a serious nature that there is a second will in existence, although it has been common talk for the past week that such a document existed.

When asked this afternoon if he was aware of the existence of a second will, Altheron N. Hunt said: "I have never seen such a will as you speak of and have never heard that such a paper existed. At the same time, I would not be surprised if such a legal paper should be presented to the Probate Court, but as a matter of fact I have no knowledge of it. There may be a will in existence for all I know."

Just why Williams should have drawn two wills is not clear to many of his associates in his office. As yet the will already on file in the office of the Probate Court at Dedham was drawn in May, 1913, and that was supposed to be the last word in the will-making career of Mr. Williams.

It could not use the will as an asset, said a lawyer today, and the only object he could have in drawing two was to make the last one out to date, unless he wanted to cut off some person or persons mentioned in the original will.

GOVERNMENT REPORTS LOWEST FIRE LOSS

With the middle of September the fire season on the national forests has come practically to an end with practically less damage than ever recorded. There is always some danger from the carelessness of campers or of settlers burning brush and clearing land, but the great danger season extends only from the middle of June until the middle of September.

Forest officers throughout the west are congratulating themselves on a season so remarkably free from heavy losses. They feel that the immunity from loss has been due to two principal causes, partly to a favorable season, but largely to a much better organization for fire prevention than has been attained heretofore. The effectiveness of the organization is shown particularly by the fact that

LEARNING FROM OTHERS

English Lecturer Pleads for Travel for Persons in Business.

If America could only send 100,000 young men to Europe every year so that they might absorb some of the British pace and courtesy, and we could send 100,000 young men across the Atlantic where they could imbibe the vitality and enthusiasm of America, we should have an Anglo-Saxon organization and combination that could not be beaten.

Thus Mr. H. Gordon Selfridge in an illuminating address to a large audience, mainly composed of his own employees, who filled the large hall of the Regent street Polytechnic last night.

They were assembled to hear a lecture by Mr. Bent on "American Departmental Stores" and Mr. Selfridge who presided, seized the opportunity to point the moral of the value of travel to business men and women.

All Nations, he said had something to learn from one another. America had much to learn from this country, and that was recognized by the merchants of the great cities. Thousands of people interested in dry goods come to Europe every year to study our methods and those of the Continent, and it was probably this everlasting travel that made our friends on the other side excel in their own departments.

And we in England had much to learn. There was nothing more valuable to those engaged in business than travel—even little excursions to Paris and the other capitals of Europe—because they were able to see how other people did things.

And they did not want to learn from other people's mistakes but from other people's excellences. In their business the important matter was to know how to improve methods by the teaching of experience wherever it was to be found.

In England we excelled in a courtesy of service and patient endeavor to please which were not to be found in the large stores of America. The politeness that permeated all England was one of the things that struck an American traveler directly he landed.

But in America they found a tremendous vitality and daring in surmounting all obstacles. They had the enthusiasm of optimists. They believed in looking on the bright side of things, and in the darkest crisis the optimism of the country was overwhelming.

It was from this spirit of enthusiasm and determination in business that England had much to learn—London Chronicle.

WINTER SCHEDULE

Will Go in Effect on B. A. M. System on Sept. 23.

The full winter time schedule will go into operation throughout the Boston & Maine Railroad system, as well as the York Harbor and Beach Railroad, and the St. Johnsbury and Lake Champlain Railroad, September 23.

Effecting the change from the summer to the winter schedule on Sunday is an innovation on the Boston & Maine system, such changes having been initiated formerly on Monday.

A number of trains in operation during the summer months as part of the service provided for the accommodation of vacation traffic to and from the various mountain, shore and inland country regions, will be discontinued for the year, the rush of vacation travel having ended.

Time tables giving the full schedule will be in the hands of the ticket agents prior to the above date.

DROP IN NEW HAVEN STOCK

New York, Sept. 18.—A break of 2 1-2 points in the stock of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad on the Stock Exchange today carried down the price to $5 1-2, a new low record in the history of the present corporation.

At $5 1-2 the stock showed a loss of 6 points since the close of last week, and was 44 3-8 points under the high price of the year, reached on Jan. 10. The depreciation in market value represented by this decline is nearly $70,000,000.

The stock rallied a point after touching $5 1-2, and no more offerings were pressed for sale.

The long decline in the shares, extending over more than a year, grew out of the various difficulties, financial and otherwise of the New Haven system, and the reduction in the dividend from the 5 per cent paid for many years to the present basis of 6 per cent.

The intimation given recently by Howard Elliott, the newly elected head of the system, that a further reduction might be deemed advisable, is believed to have been a factor in the renewed decline in the price.

EFFECT OF CANAL ON WORLD'S TRADE

Professor Kirkaldy Tells British Association England Must Fight To Hold Own

Birmingham, England, Sept. 17.—Speaking on "Some of the Economic Effects of the Panama Canal," Prof. A. W. Kirkaldy told the British Association at its meeting yesterday that such effects would be easily exaggerated. "So far as the outside world is concerned," he said, "the greatest effect of the opening of the canal will probably be to get commerce and trade out of the groove, and cause an all around modernization of business methods. The old way will have to be scrapped, friction among the factors of production will have to be eliminated, capital and labor in competing countries will have to learn to work harmoniously together. Socially and economically this will effect a very great result, in what America dreamed of when she entered upon this stupendous undertaking."

Mr. Kirkaldy is professor of finance at Birmingham University and a recognized authority on economic questions. In his address he treated his subject under the two general heads of local effects and effects on world trade. From the industrial point of view he said three questions arose—what shall certain parties, who shall perform the service of transport, and what routes shall shipping take?

The Diving Factors

The principal factors on the balance of advantages of which the foregoing questions would be decided were: distance; tolls on the route; freights and the possibility of the continuous freight earnings; fuel stations; insurance rates; the political factor, rates of exchange; investment of banking facilities; the human factor—manpower; and commercial ability, experience of trade and markets and present possessions.

"The canal," he said, "will add enormously to the commercial facilities between the various regions in the American continent and the adjacent islands, hence important developments may be expected. The West India islands will enter upon a new period of prosperity, especially when the internal combustion engine takes the place of steam, and oil replaces coal. English business and fiscal methods will have a great effect on making the West India important to shipping and thus assist the development of local industries, especially the export of raw material. The comparatively unprogressive states of Central and South America will undergo remarkable development owing to increased immigration of Europeans and increased trade. These local benefits will be the chief, and ample justification for the construction of the canal."

War for Coal Trade

Of the effect on world trade he continued: "America realizes the importance of the coal trade to the United Kingdom. There will be a strenuous attempt to displace British coal throughout the world in order to give American shipping the advantages at present enjoyed by the British. If successful this will deal a mortal blow at our mercantile marine. Thus the British coal industry must realize the situation and both the capital and labor interested resolve to hold the market at all costs until the fuel question—coal or oil is finally settled."

"The published scheme of tolls which frees American coasting ships raises an international question. If the canal be worked on business principles higher tolls will be exacted from other shipping. This will cause either a grievance or decrease the tonnage using the canal. The question might be made domestic instead of international if America charged equal shipping as it wharves to favor."

As to the effect of distance, he thought that on Australia and for eastern markets it would be considerable, as the millage on by a steamer in this shipping offered a contrast to railroads for when trucks were loaded length of haul had but little effect on cost of service.

Advantages of Distance

"Taking London and New York as the typical European and American ports," he said, "the markets of the world fall into three classes—(1) Countries in close proximity to the canal; here the effect will be greatest and, in many cases, the use of the canal is necessary; (2) Australia and the far east. At present there is a choice of routes to these markets. Panama will offer another alternative; (3) Ports not directly affected.

"Class 2 is receiving most attention from those estimating the effects on world trade. There is a parallel equidistant from London via Suez, and from New York via Panama. On the south coast of Australia this is Port Lincoln, Adelaide being the nearest great port. All Asiatic ports west of Japan will continue to be nearer to London, e. g., Manila will be 2,000 miles nearer. But all Japanese and New Zealand ports, and all Australian ports east of Adelaide will be nearer New York. It costs 2s to transport one ton of goods 1,000 miles, distance saved will give American manufacturers an advantage of from 2s. to 7s. 6d. per ton on all goods supplied to ports between Melbourne and Wellington, N. Z."

Police Get $80, Part of Which Was Buried in a Celler

Crescenzo D'Amario, a grocer, doing business at No. 35 Deer street had $1300 in his cash register yesterday noon when he stepped out for a short time, and when he got back just one half, or $150, had disappeared. He reported it to the police and in one way and another the officers got information that caused the arrest of two little girls ages 12 and 15 respectively. They were questioned as to the stealing and one of them denied being connected with it, while the other told it all and said they were both implicated. Today the officers got back $80, fifty of which they found hidden in the cellar of a house. The remainder came from the return of a bicycle to a dealer which had been purchased for $30. There is still $70 of the amount missing which the police are attempting to dig up but the girls say they have no more. It was easy to decide the fact as that of children from the fact they left half the money behind them, and really had more than they knew what to do with.

Hospital tonight, making no fight for her life, having said she is tired of living.

The attempt was the dramatic climax of a love affair between the Anderson, Ind., senator's son and the young divorcee, who has been living at the Belmont Hotel since her separation from her husband. Mrs. McDonald went to the theatre with Netterville and George Irwin, a friend of Netterville, and another girl. After the show Netterville and Mrs. McDonald engaged in a childish quarrel over some letters the girl had found in her sweetheart's pocket. It is understood, and Netterville left her.

A few moments later Mrs. McDonald hurriedly entered the Belmont Hotel, obtained a 32-calibre revolver she had bought at another crisis in her love affair, and left the hotel. While a number of people were watching her Mrs. McDonald drew the revolver and shot herself. She fell to the sidewalk, throwing the revolver into the street.

POLICE COURT.

Annie Grant and Mabel Straut, visitors from Portland, have been on the New Hampshire side of the river for a week and though a little behind the vacation season they were delighted with the ozone of the picturesque Granite State. They were continuing with nature on Jenkins avenue when the police asked for a visiting card. Annie and Mabel were a little on their dignity when the officer doubted their social standing but were obliged to take a walk to the Daniel street hotel. Today they told the court that they were not guilty of the charge of street walking but the testimony was convincing and the fair maid from the Forest city will be in time for the "hushing bee" and other social events conducted under the auspices of the county during the next three months. They appeared much pleased to have their tour extended to another part of the country and enjoyed the remainder of their stay in vocal exercise, bringing out the latest up-to-date rag time hits of the day.

Surgeon General Charles P. Stokes chief of the bureau of medicine and surgery of the navy, has decided to recommend that the bodies of the American naval officers and enlisted men now buried at Valparaiso, Chile, be brought back to this country by the first war vessel touching at that port. It is expected that Mr. Stokes will approve the recommendation. The condition of the graves of the American officers and sailors was brought to the attention of the department by a letter published in the Washington Star several weeks ago from Dr. W. E. Aughtinbaugh, of Washington, who, on a recent trip to Valparaiso learned that the graves were not properly cared for.
